accounts of library collections, both public and private, and the more important library catalogues, and contributions to the history of printing and bookselling will all find a place here. Library administration, on the other hand, and the commercial side of printing and bookselling will be excluded.

The successful carrying out of this programme must depend largely on two conditions—an increase in the Society's membership, so that a sum sufficient to meet the expense of printing may be available, and steady coöperation on the part of members, so that information may be gathered in from every side. Relying on this support, the Editors will do their best to provide, in the name of the Society, a sort of clearing-house for bibliographical information, where each member may find something that will interest him and may give in return something of value to others.

NOTES AND NEWS

An index to volumes I-X (1897-1906) of the American journal of archæology, second series, is in preparation and will probably be issued during 1907.

The Bulletin of Bibliography announces that it will begin the publication in an early number of an exhaustive bibliography of the literary "annuals" and "gift books" of England and America popular during the early half of the nineteenth century.

Dr. John L. Haney, of the Central High school, Philadelphia, is collecting material for a revised and enlarged edition of his bibliography of Samuel Taylor Coleridge, Philadelphia, 1903. In a letter to the New York Times

Saturday review of books, April 27, he requests information regarding Coleridge marginalia in particular.

The library of G. V. Yudin, the bibliographer of Russian literature, recently acquired by the Library of Congress, arrived April 5. It consists mainly of Russica and Siberica and numbers about 80,000 volumes. It is described in a monograph by Mr. A. V. Babine, The Yudin library. Washington, D. C. 1905. 40 p. Portrait. Plates. Facsimiles.

The Bulletin of Bibliography for April contains the first part of a second edition of Mr. Robert M. McCurdy's Bibliography of articles relating to holidays. The new edition has been revised and brought down to December, 1906, by Miss Edith M. Coulter. It will be published by the Boston book co. in pamphlet form.

The announcement of the Carnegie Institution that "unless it appears that the Index medicus is of greater service to the medical profession and can help to support itself to a greater extent than in the past, it may become advisable to discontinue its publication," is the subject of an editorial in the Medical library and historical journal for September, 1906.

The American Economic Association will inaugurate in the autumn a quarterly bibliographical bulletin with Professor C. W. A. Veditz of George Washington University as managing editor. The editorial staff will include about 25 prominent economists, each in charge of a particular field of the subject.

The new journal will contain, in addition to book notes and reviews, news regarding the work of the economic organizations throughout the world and personal notes relating to American economists.

The subjects chosen for bibliographical theses by members of the senior class of the New York state library school are Bio-bibliography of printers, by L. J. Bailey, Bibliography of education for 1906, by M. G. Brown, Holidays: a revised and enlarged edition of the bibliography prepared by R. M. McCurdy, by E. M. Coulter, Complete annotated list of Norwegian literature as represented in English translations and works, by A. Kildal, Reference list of Vermont local history, by G. L. Lewis, Detective stories, by L. F. Merritt, Selected and annotated list of books for older girls, by C. A. Metz, Henry Irving, by J. Steffa, Cleveland: its municipal activities, 1880-date, by C. P. P. Vitz.

Miss K. E. Dinsmoor of the same class has compiled a list of dissertations presented to 32 American universities for higher degrees, 1905-06. It is hoped by the authorities of the school that the list will be supplemented each year by succeeding senior students.

Mr. Geo. F. Black, New York Public Library (Lenox Library Building), has just completed a Bibliography of works relating to the Gypsies. The list extends to nearly 1000 items. It is to be published in the first number of the Journal of the newly formed Gypsy-Lore Society, Liverpool, England.

At the recent meeting of the American Historical Association in Providence the Committee on bibliography reported progress upon a check list of the chief collections of sources of European history in American libraries. The printed check list of 1000 series is being enlarged and will contain nearly twice that number of titles. It is expected that the work will be published before the end of the year.

The George Washington University recently acquired through the generosity of friends the library of the late Professor Dr. Curt Wachsmuth of the University of Leipzig. It contains 7900 volumes and pamphlets relating to Greek and Roman archæology, philology, literature, and history. This, together with the Heinzel library, which is devoted primarily to Germanics, but also contains a great deal of value relating to the Old Norse, Romance, and Slavic languages, makes the University library stronger in philology than any other library in Washington.

The Harvard Law School has in preparation an author catalogue of its library, the first volume of which will be issued from the Riverside Press within a year. The volume will contain all the books in the library relating to American, English, and Colonial Law, including treatises, reports and statutes, legal periodicals, trials, and peerage cases. This first volume is to be followed by a subject-index of the same.

The first printed catalogue of the library of the Law School was published in 1826, and the last, termed "the fourth edition," in 1846. The present volume is being prepared under the direction of Charles F. D. Belden, Assistant librarian.

"A list of references in some English and American periodicals of political and social science," prepared by Professor Ripley, is preserved in the reading-room of the library of Harvard College. It is a classified index to the American journal of sociology, Annals of the American academy of political and social science, Columbia University studies in history, economics, and public law, Economic journal, Economic review, Economic studies, John Hopkins University studies in historical and political science, Journal of political economy, Political science quarterly, Publications of the American Economic Association, Publications of the American Statistical Association, Quarterly journal of economics, and Yale review.

With the exception of some articles of a legal character in the Political science quarterly and some others in the Johns Hopkins University studies and Economic review, which are omitted, this list is a complete guide to the journals indexed from their foundation to the year 1902. The work extends to 82 folios in manuscript.

A List of periodicals devoted to anthropology, economics, geography, history, jurisprudence, politics, and sociology is appended. This includes about 225 entries.

The "Index to periodical articles on religion, 1890-1899, together with an index encyclopædia of the subjects treated," prepared by Dr. E. C. Richardson, is now in type save for a few additions and corrections and preliminary matter. It contains about 70,000 references to articles in periodicals, together with about 15,000 brief definitions, with references to the most accessible reference books. Several thousand of these definitions are not to be found in the general theological encyclopædias.

After page proofs have been circulated to a number of collaborators, and their corrections inserted, the work will be published. It will extend to about 1400 pages. The subscription price will be $10 or $12. Messrs. Charles Scribner's sons are the publishers.

The American Type Founders Company is collecting a library and museum relating to letter-founding in America, and printing generally, in its central establishment in Jersey City, N. J. As the result of six months' effort a fairly complete collection of American type-specimen books has been secured, including the very rare first six of 1809, 1812, 1815, 1816, 1818, 1822. Adam Gerard Mappa, the first New York letter-founder, used a specimen book printed at Delft in Holland in 1787. He removed his plant and matrices to New York in 1791. Only one copy of his book is known to exist, and is in this collection. The search for early American type-specimen books has also resulted in finding three English specimen books of early dates, not mentioned by Reed, the latest historian of English letter-founding. The library is to be open to the public on all business days. The American Type Founders Company is the successor of all except one of the letter-foundries established in America prior to 1869. Christopher Sauer established the first type foundry in 1772, at Germantown. Jacob Bay, 1774, and John Baine, 1778, followed at Philadelphia; Mappa at New York, in 1791. All these were merged into one by Binny and Ronaldson in 1796, which has been operated constantly since at Philadelphia, where from 1870 to 1890 it became the foremost letter-foundry of the world for the manufacture of job types. The Bruce foundry was established in 1813, at New York; the Boston in 1817; the Cincinnati in 1817; the Dickinson, at Boston, in 1838, and the Chicago in 1856. These are all in operation.

The city of Antwerp maintains as a museum the now disused letter-foundry and printing office of Plantin, 1555-1880. The Custors of London, 1720, and Enschedé & Sons, Haarlem, 1743, both in vigorous existence, also have small museums relating to their own development.

For this interesting information we are indebted to Mr. Henry L. Bullen, of the American Type Founders Company.

Mr. Archer B. Hulbert has in preparation a bibliography of roads. It is hoped to make it complete so far as American and English works are concerned. It will be both author and subject list, and will be published by the Department of Agriculture, Office of public roads, probably in 1908.

AMERICANA

Work on a complete calendar of newspapers belonging to the Maryland historical society is well advanced.

Bermuda: a bibliography, by George Watson Cole, containing material not in the serial issue in the Bulletin of Bibliography and an exhaustive index by the author, will be published by the Boston book co. at once. 150 copies for sale.

Mr. Arthur Lord, President of the Pilgrim Society at Plymouth, read a paper at the meeting of the New England historic genealogical society, November 7, 1906, on The Pilgrim press at Leyden and the first New England library, a contribution to the history of Elder Brewster.

Miss Adelaide R. Hasse of the New York Public Library is preparing under the auspices of the Department of economics and sociology of the Carnegie Institution, a subject-index to the economic material in American state documents. It will be issued in parts, state by state. The first of these, Maine, will be published immediately; New Hampshire has been sent to press, and New York will follow in the early summer.

Messrs. Henkels and Morrison of Philadelphia issue a prospectus of a Bibliography of the state, town, county, and territorial history of the United States, compiled by Thomas L. Bradford, M.D., and edited and revised by Stan. V. Henkels. It is expected to embrace about 7000 titles, and to be published in about five octavo volumes.

Early American Poetry. Volume II, containing the titles of books and pamphlets written by authors born or residing in the United States and Canada, and printed from 1800 to 1820, by Oscar Wegelin, will be issued in the fall in an edition of 150 copies. It will contain as an appendix additional titles of the period covered by volume I (before 1800).

Mr. Hugh A. Morrison has completed a catalogue of the library of the late Mr. Levi Z. Leiter of Washington, D. C. The collection consists mainly of Americana, including a large number of books, pamphlets, and newspapers relating to the Confederate states. It also embraces rare Shakespeareana, Waltoniana, etc. One hundred copies of the catalogue will be printed for private circulation. It will extend to about 550 pages, and will be illustrated by facsimiles of pages of Jefferson's Notes, of Washington's letter from Valley Forge, of the Franklin-Hartley map of the United States of 1783.

Dr. Stephen B. Weeks, San Carlos, Arizona, is preparing a new edition of his bibliography of Confederate text books originally published in the Report of the Commissioner of Education for 1898-99.

An exhibit of Louisville literature was a feature at the Greater Louisville exposition. It represented about 300 authors and over 600 titles of books. The collection was made by the joint efforts of the Literature committee of the Exposition and the Free public library. At the close of the Exposition many of the books were transferred to the permanent collection of Kentucky authors at the Public library. The only larger collection of Kentuckiana is that in the possession of Col. R. T. Durrett of Louisville.

The libraries of the late Samuel Adams Drake, and his father Samuel G. Drake, bookseller, author, and historian of Boston, were sold by C. F. Libbie in Boston, May 7 to 9. The special features of the sale were the large collections of broadsides, early Boston newspapers and scrap books of classified historical memoranda. Of the 595 broadsides sold the most important was "Governor Hutchinson's Address to both Houses of the General Court of Massachusetts Bay in New England, 16 Feb. 1773." The only other copy known of this is in the library of the Massachusetts Historical Society. It brought $32. Many Rhode Island broadsides were bought by the Rhode Island Historical Society library, and the Harvard University library secured many broadside ballads and street songs. A copy of George Gardiner's "A Description of the New World, or America Islands and Continent, etc." was purchased for the Library of Congress at the record price of $150. The sale was fully reported in the Boston Evening Transcript of May 7, 8, 9, and 10.

Mr. Victor H. Paltsits read a paper on "The Almanacs of Roger Sherman, 1750-1761" at the meeting of the American Antiquarian Society held in Boston, April 17, which will be printed in the next number of the Proceedings of that society.

Mr. Victor H. Paltsits is preparing a critical bibliography of the very rare work of Nicolas Denys, entitled: "Description Géographique et Historique," etc., originally printed at Paris, in 1672. This work has never been reprinted or translated into English, but this gap is now to be filled by a scholarly edition, prepared by Professor William F. Ganong, of Smith College, with whom Mr. Paltsits is coöperating. The Champlain Society of Canada will issue the work.

INDEX BUREAU. The Index Bureau of Albany, N. Y., is a corporation organized in January of the present year to index bills and periodicals. The indexing of periodicals has not yet been begun nor has the scope of the proposed work been definitely determined, but it is announced that it will not be of such a nature as to compete with existing published indexes. During the past winter the Bureau has prepared index cards for bills introduced in the legislatures of the various states. Subscribers secure the service upon any topic in which they are interested. A card is sent upon the introduction of the bill giving briefly the state, subject, number of bill, name of introducer, and date of introduction. Another card is sent upon the passage of the bill by either house and upon its signature or veto by the Governor. The service is used chiefly by national organizations and class publications interested in keeping track of bills in all the states relating to their particular subject. With the help and advice of Robert H. Whitten, Legislative Reference Librarian of the New York State Library, the Bureau has also organized a service for the special benefit of the legislative libraries. A selection is made of the bills most important in legislative reference work. Cards for these are sent to subscribing libraries and they are hereby enabled to get together a file of bills on every conceivable subject that will be of great value in drafting similar legislation for their own state. Mr. Frederick D. Bramhall is secretary and manager of the Bureau.

A NEW INDEX TO FEDERAL STATUTES AND TREATIES. Through the efforts of Mr. Middleton G. Beaman, and Dr. Geo. Winfield Scott of the Law Library of Congress and Supreme Court there has been prepared a classification scheme (of some 800 quarto pages) for a detailed subject-index to the general public law found in the statutes, treaties, and proclamations of the United States since the foundation of the Government.

The classification consists of a tentative list of the headings, subheadings, and cross-references. It forms "the framework or skeleton on which will be subjoined at the appropriate points the entries or brief descriptions of the innumerable subjects of law in the 40,000 pages of Statutes and Treaties.

In his letter transmitting the work to the Librarian of Congress for printing, Dr. Scott says, "By the use of cross-references repetition of identical entries is largely avoided and space is economized without omitting at any point any subject which may be reasonably conceived by any inquirer whether he be Government specialist, lawyer, or layman. . . . Entries will begin with the most descriptive or significant word, and will undertake in the brief space of a single line to give a precise description of the legal matter referred to. Entries will be followed by the volume and page of the Statutes at Large and the day, month and year of the enactment of the Statute or ratification of the Treaty."

The letter also states: "The present classification will undoubtedly be subjected to many modifications as the work progresses — particularly the more detailed subheadings, which will be eliminated wherever the descriptive word of the entry will answer the purpose (viz., of guiding the inquirer) without accumulating an unduly long list of entries under any particular subject heading."

Criticism is also invited. "To index accurately and with fullness the detail of a subject, complete knowledge of the subject in its various phases and also of its various relations to cognate subjects is required. A mastery of the numerous subjects to be indexed is impossible without long study. For this reason the present draft of the principal subjects to be indexed will be submitted to those who may have special knowledge of particular subjects and are competent to give useful criticisms and suggestions thereon. The classification scheme has been printed with a wide margin and spaced to enable those who will be good enough to criticise it, readily to write in their suggestions at the appropriate points." The classification scheme will be sent by the Library of Congress to members of the profession and specialists who are willing to give suggestions on those subjects to which they have given special attention.

This is the first attempt in the United States, it is believed, to prepare a thoroughly scientific index in detail to the general public law found in the statutes. Were a standard scheme of classification worked out and the session laws of the Federal Government and all the States regularly indexed by lawyers scientifically trained, a comparative index to the legislation of this country would exist which would be of practical use to the profession, to legislators, to scholars, and to those who undertake to prepare consolidations of the law in the shape of Revisions and Codes. As Dr. Scott says, "a table of the repeals and amendments and a detailed subject-index of the statutes have generally been considered [abroad] the prerequisite processes of the scientific method which should be employed in the preparation of an accurate and orderly revision, consolidation, or codification of the sessional statutes."

For the preparation of this index, Congress appropriated $5840 for the fiscal year 1906-1907. After the plan was approved by the Judiciary Committees of the two Houses, the indexing was begun and for this work the appropriation has been continued for the fiscal year 1907-1908.

A volume that will be of interest to bibliographers and of great value to historical and other scholars is shortly to be published by the Colonial Society of Massachusetts, forming volume IX of its Publications. It will contain a Check-List and a Collation of Numbers and Dates of Boston Newspapers from 1704-1780, compiled by Miss Mary Farwell Ayer of Boston, and also Bibliographical Notes prepared by Albert Matthews. In the Check-List are listed all known copies of Boston newspapers in the following fourteen libraries: American Antiquarian Society, Boston Athenæum, Boston Public Library, Bostonian Society, Essex Institute, New England Historic Genealogical Society, Harvard College Library, Library of Congress, Lenox Library, Massachusetts Historical Society, Massachusetts State Library, New York Historical Society, Historical Society of Pennsylvania, State Historical Society of Wisconsin. Mutilations and the presence or absence of supplements are also indicated. The bibliographical notes consist of an Introductory Note, setting forth the peculiarities of Boston newspapers in general, and of fifteen other notes, one for each paper. In these the bibliographical details relating to each paper are arranged under the following four heads: (1) titles, (2) days of publication, (3) publishers, printers, and places of publication, and (4) devices. These notes embody the results of the first exhaustive examination of Boston newspapers (during the period covered by the Check-List) that has ever been made, and the only one that has been made since Isaiah Thomas published his History of printing in America in 1810.

The Publications of the Colonial Society of Massachusetts, volume 4, now in press, will include a Bibliography of the laws of the Massachusetts Bay, 1641-1776, by Mr. Worthington Chauncey Ford, and a Calendar of the papers and records relating to the Land Bank in 1740, in the Massachusetts archives and Suffolk Court files, by Mr. Andrew McFarland Davis.
